NEW PRODUCTS

---

Newtechwood offers both hollow and solid decking boards in Australia.

Hollow core boards are lightweight and easier to handle and perfect for most residential situations. A common misconception about hollow boards is that they are inferior in strength. To the contrary, the arch structure of the void distributes pressure equal to the material absent from the core giving them the same fortitude as a solid board. However, 25mm thick solid boards are also now available and they can span 450mm joist spacing. Solid boards are suitable for commercial applications and when replacing an existing decking set on a sub-frame with greater joist spacing than required for hollow boards.

The top of the decking boards is textured to give a more natural look and feel. The textured surface has an R11 Slip Resistance rating. The reverse side of the board is a smoother brushed finish. The R11 Slip Rating will not apply to the brushed side. Newtechwood provide a range of finishing boards to use for fascias, picture framing, breaker boards, stairs and screening.

Natural look and feel

Never have to sand, oil or paint your deck again

Fully capped for Ultra Protection against moisture

BAL 29 for bush fire rated areas

Pest and termite resistant

UV protection

25 Year Warranty
